

Biography

Steven Fay is a Quantitative Analyst in the Supervision, Regulation & Credit Department at the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. Steven's work focuses on credit risk measurement, management and quantification through his involvement in bank examinations and his development of micro-level lending analytics.

Steven received his B.A. in economics from Connecticut College and his M.B.A., concentrating in accounting, from Bentley College. He is also a C.P.A.

Education

M.B.A. (Accounting), Bentley College, 2003

B.A., Connecticut College, 1997

Work Experience

Federal Reserve Bank of Boston
Quantitative Analyst, 2001-
Senior Research Associate, 1997-2001

Publications

Journals

"Recent Activity Resulting from the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act," New England Banking Trends, 2000.