

Join Us for Reserve Bank Product Spotlights On:

- Check 21 FedForward, FedReturn and FedReceipt/FedReceipt Plus: Many of you already use our Check 21 products and services. We will review these services and highlight 2008 products and pricing changes that make these products more attractive than ever before.
For institutions that are still clearing paper checks and are not yet taking advantage of the benefits that Check 21 image clearing has to offer, we will discuss our upcoming check infrastructure changes and how making the move to Check 21 may help to mitigate the impact of these changes on your institution.
- FedACH Risk Management: We'll highlight dramatic price decreases for our FedACH Risk Origination Monitoring Service and how it can supplement your existing risk management programs. Also planned: discussions of other new and enhanced ACH Risk Management products.
- FedEDI Plus: 2008 upgrades let you automatically search ACH files for financial EDI messages, translate payment and remittance information into easily-readable reports, then distribute this information to your business customers.

Join us for a discussion of how Reserve Bank products and services can help you meet the challenges of today's changing payments system, and prepare for the future.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Boston Invites You to Our Spring 2008 Financial Services Seminar Series

Sessions to be Held at Locations Throughout
New England
April and May, 2008

Boston, MA • Providence, RI
Portland, ME • Meriden, CT
W. Lebanon, NH • Springfield, MA

More About the Event

In addition to reviewing the latest in Reserve Bank Financial Services, we'll put the benefits of these services into context. You'll also hear information about:

- The 2007 Federal Reserve Payments Study that examined retail payments during 2006, outlining trends since the previous 2003 study period.
- Growth of image exchange and e-check conversion, both of which increased dramatically during 2007.
- The latest information available about the planned consolidation of our Windsor Locks, CT, Check Processing Operations into our Philadelphia, PA office.
- How strong growth in ACH, increased product offerings, and enhanced accessibility to the ACH network means increased risk exposure for financial institutions.

Who Should Attend This Event

Senior professionals, managers and officers involved in Check and ACH operations, particularly those with decision making authority will benefit from these sessions.
